NDA REDESIGNS WEBSITE, ADDS NEW FEATURES

LINCOLN—The Nebraska Department of Agriculture (NDA) recently redesigned its website (nda.nebraska.gov) by adding new features and re-organizing content to help visitors more easily find the information they need. NDA’s website now has a records request portal and a searchable inspection report database that will continue to be added to in the future. The website is more mobile friendly, too, to better serve Nebraskans on the go.

“The goal of NDA’s website has always been to provide useful information and resources to support the needs of the agricultural community and the public,” said NDA Director Steve Wellman. “NDA long supports Governor Ricketts’s mission of improving customer service in state government. These new website features will help people find what they are looking for quickly and easily, and NDA will continue to look for ways to be more effective, more efficient and more customer focused to better serve Nebraskans.”
